About Us

 <section class="columns-md">  <h2>Who we are</h2>  We are a non-profitable foundation that widespreads information and acknowledgment about the culture, cuisine, people, animals and plants -among others- of the countries located in or near the Sahara desert region.   Sahara Indomitable is our brand new official website, which carries the same name as our foundation. In this portal, you will get free access to a series of online posts, articles and media reports that will bring the Sahrawi way of living to you. We have just started posting and we will update the content with new articles and posts every month. In the Categories page, you will find all the current articles sorted by category. New categories we are working at right now will be announced in dark red with the text Coming soon...     In the next sections, you will find more details about the main categories of this Sahara Indomitable. We hope this portal brings a spark of curiosity in you and gets you acknowledged to the Sahrawi culture.   </section> <section class="columns-md">  <h2>Cuisine</h2>  In this category you will find all types of Sahrawi cuisine, specially those less known dishes for their nature, e.g. the Sand Bread, which is cooked directly on the Sahara sand.   Western Saharan cuisine comprises the cuisine of Western Sahara, a disputed territory in the Maghreb region of North Africa, bordered by Morocco to the north, Algeria to the extreme northeast, Mauritania to the east and south, and the Atlantic Ocean to the west. The Western Saharan cuisine has several influences, as the population of that area (Sahrawi), in their most part are of Arabic and Berber origin. The Saharawi cuisine is also influenced by Spanish cuisine owing to Spanish colonization.   Food is primarily imported into Western Sahara, as minimal rainfall in the territory inhibits agricultural production. Indigenous sources of food include those derived from fishing and nomadic pastoralism. The labor and business in these indigenous provisions of foods are also a primary contributor of income for the territory's population, and are among the primary contributors to the economy of Western Sahara.    <figure>  <figcaption>  BONETTI. 2012. Pan Saharai [online].
